2014-2015

THE ASSOCIATED: JEWISH COMMUNITY FEDERATION OF BALTIMORE

strengthens and nurtures Jewish life by engaging and supporting community partners in Greater Baltimore, Israel and around the world.

Making it Possible

We are on a mission to feed, shelter, counsel, engage and inspire Jews in Baltimore, Israel and around the world. In fiscal year 2015*, together with our agencies and community partners, we addressed pressing issues and laid important groundwork to meet these challenges.

We expanded the range of social services offered. We invested in Jewish educational programming. We acted quickly to address the urgent needs in Israel following Operation Protective Edge and extended a hand beyond our Jewish community to provide assistance to the residents of West Baltimore following the unrest.

We also made more possible. We provided a coordinated community response to elder abuse in northwest Baltimore. We leveraged public and private funding to preserve the stability and vitality of public schools from Federal Hill to Pikesville. We promoted Jewish learning through play at JTown at the Weinberg Park Heights JCC. We developed a new model of teen education and engagement.

Through your generous donations made to our annual campaign, we raised $30.5 million to do all of this and more. It was a good year.

2014-2015 at a Glance

We utilized generous community resources to care for the most vulnerable among us, while educating our young people to build a vibrant Jewish future and developing our global Jewish responsibility.

The following pages provide only a glimpse of this year's investment in lasting partnerships that make an impact on people in Baltimore and around the world.

A close-up photograph of a woman with blonde hair and glasses, smiling warmly at a baby she is holding. The baby has light-colored hair and is looking towards the camera. The woman is wearing a purple garment.

Caring for the most vulnerable is the cornerstone of our community.

Together with our partners, we are committed to alleviating hunger and hardship for the poorest Jews in Baltimore and addressing the needs of thousands of our neighbors – from children with disabilities in local inclusion programs to low-income older adults living in isolation.

We counseled and mentored at-risk youth, served adults with disabilities and provided financial assistance to struggling families.

The Associated strived to develop – and replicate – effective models of care to improve lives and communities in Baltimore and around the world.

“I never thought I could tell anyone what horrible things my daughter says to me. Sometimes I am so frightened of her I don’t know what to do. The folks at SAFE helped me find a way to separate myself and still love her as a daughter.”

-Janet, 74*

Advancing Care for the Vulnerable

Reducing Elder Abuse

CHANA provided a coordinated community response to elder abuse in northwest Baltimore through SAFE (Stop Abuse of Elders). This partnership with Jewish Community Services and Levindale Hebrew Geriatric Center and Hospital engaged 564 older adults in healthy relationship workshops.

Preventing Homelessness

To prevent evictions and homelessness, 1,500 individuals received emergency cash assistance through Jewish Community Services. Cash assistance is offered to individuals and families as part of a total service plan designed with the goal of achieving financial independence.

Developing Caring Partnerships for Seniors

Trained volunteers helped the most vulnerable members of the mutual-support “village,” Northwest Neighbors Connecting, which is an initiative of CHAI: Comprehensive Housing Assistance, Inc.’s Supportive Community Network. These Care Partners, a cohort of “enhanced friends,” each contributed 35 hours of volunteer services every month to offer additional support to fellow senior members.

Enhancing Employment Opportunities

With support from local donors and $490,000 from the Workforce Development Matching Grant Initiative (a national program created by the Harry and Jeanette Weinberg Foundation, in partnership with the Jewish Funders Network), Jewish Community Services’ Career Center significantly expanded its services this year. Its focus is on developing increased employment opportunities and providing services to people with barriers to employment, including individuals with disabilities.

Working in Partnership to Care for our City

In partnership with several coalitions and nonprofit groups, we helped to rebuild Baltimore City in the aftermath of the unrest in the Penn North neighborhood in April. Through hundreds of generous donations, funds were raised to assist in the recovery and long-lasting efforts to enhance Baltimore.

Thriving Jewish communities begin with life-long Jewish learning and experiences.

That's why today, providing educational programming across the community is at the heart of our work.

The tapestry of Jewish engagement and learning initiatives spans all ages and stages of life, from programs for families with new babies to enrichment classes for older adults.

This year, we focused on connecting families with young children from all backgrounds, sending more children to Jewish camp, strengthening formal Jewish education and developing a new model of teen education and engagement. We inspired collaboration and promoted Jewish living to ensure that Baltimore has a vibrant Jewish future for generations to come.

“Addison gained such a love of Israel at Camp Milldale last summer, playing Israeli games and becoming friends with the shilichim [Israeli counselors], that she and her friends are already planning their trip to Israel.”

-Dara Burstein, mother of eight-year-old Addison

Building Jewish Future

Shaping Synagogues for the Future

Along with the Darrell D. Friedman Institute for Professional Development at the Weinberg Center, The Associated brought six pilot synagogues together (Baltimore Hebrew, Beth Am, Oheb Shalom, Beth El, Beth Israel and Chizuk Amuno congregations) to help them brainstorm new ways to engage their members. The synagogues deepened their culture through listening campaigns to uncover the talents of members, to build stronger relationships and to identify areas of mutual interest.

Engaging Young Children and their Families

Since opening this past January, JTown welcomed over 2,600 families to the new, colorful play space at the Weinberg Park Heights JCC. JTown promotes Jewish learning, values and ways of living through a unique, interactive, child-sized Jewish community and is operated in collaboration with the Macks Center for Jewish Education.

Caring for our Neighborhoods

CHAI worked in partnership with school leadership, community stakeholders and residents to form a new Pikesville Schools Coalition that began to expand enrichment programming, increase parent involvement and improve the school climate. CHAI's goal is to appeal to young Jewish families through educationally-enriched Pikesville schools.

Educating Each Child

SHEMESH Reading Services evaluated and provided direct services to 60 four-and five-year-old students with learning differences in six day schools, while helping teachers to enhance their effectiveness in facilitating and teaching reading skills for another 360 students.

Connecting at the Grassroots

Four peer-to-peer connectors, through the Macks Center for Jewish Education, reached, met and engaged families in their neighborhoods. Connectors developed relationships with and Jewish programming for more than 100 families in the downtown, Roland Park and Mount Washington communities.

Inspiring Jewish Experiences

From making candles and learning about Jewish heroes in connection with Chanukah to brick building for Passover, 80 fifth and sixth graders from Baltimore Hebrew, Beth El and Beth Israel congregations engaged in the unique Hebrew School on the Farm partnership with the Pearlstone Center this year.

Our values span the globe.

Thus, we are committed to creating Jewish experiences to engage those seeking a connection to Israel and to care for the underserved families and youth in Israel and around the world. Together, with our beneficiary partners overseas, the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee and the Jewish Agency for Israel, we supported an array of programs that addressed community needs in our sister cities of Ashkelon and Odessa and built personal connections that last a life time.

This year, we provided crisis relief in Israel during Operation Protective Edge and in Ukraine during the conflict with neighboring Russia. We created Jewish experiences to connect community members to Israel. We ensured that Jews around the world have the promise of a strong, sustainable community and that Baltimoreans understand the importance and far-reach of the diverse Jewish world.

“Each of us, as individuals, has the opportunity to become a strong voice for the pro-Israel movement. Young Pros Counteracting BDS provided the tools that we can use to counteract the propaganda being used against Israel.”

-Mark Edelson, 30, Co-chair of Young Pros Counteracting BDS

Developing a Global Peoplehood

Aiding Jews in Ukraine

More than a year of conflict has drastically affected the cost of living across Ukraine, as medicine, food and oil costs sky-rocketed. Through our generous donors, and in partnership with JDC and JAFI, a grant of $160,000 provided emergency food and medical relief for the most vulnerable of Jewish populations.

Connecting Globally

To promote personal connections between Baltimore and Odessa, we welcomed three JAFI summer camp counselors from our sister city in Ukraine. The counselors interacted with 600 local campers, community members and Jewish professionals, educating and engaging them around the Baltimore-Odessa Partnership, Jewish identity and global responsibility.

Developing Relationships with Israel

With the goal of creating deeper and more personal connections to Israel, we helped send 579 young adults, between the ages of 18-30, to Israel through Taglit-Birthright Israel, Onward Israel internships and Masa Israel experiences.

Promoting Israel on Campus

Through the Hillels on four Maryland campuses (Towson University, Goucher College, Johns Hopkins University and University of Maryland, College Park), four Israel Fellows brought our homeland to life for students and university staff. These young Israelis inspired connections to Israel for more than 800 students through conversation, positive Israel-related programming and engaging interactions with Israelis.

Combating Anti-Israel Activity

Young professionals were educated and trained to advocate for Israel through The Young Pros Countering BDS (Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions) program organized by the Baltimore Jewish Council. These rising community leaders were equipped with information to help combat increased anti-Israel activity this year.

Extending Our Support

Through Annual Campaign resources, The Associated also supported organizations that share our commitment to impact and enrich Jewish lives here in Baltimore and around the world.

Guided by hundreds of dedicated volunteers, we made targeted grants to 65 programs that promote Jewish learning, care for families in crisis, combat anti-Semitism and foster meaningful connections to the global community.

A Glimpse of the Future

The Associated's Community Planning & Allocations Steering Committee spent many hours providing oversight of the distribution of our funds. This group met extensively with our local and overseas beneficiary agencies to identify the evolving and growing needs of our Jewish community, evaluated the impact of services and programs, and reviewed ongoing issues that have policy and fiscal implications.

More than 300 volunteers and professionals were engaged in thoughtful deliberations to ensure the precious resources received this year are maximized in the year to come.

Leveraging Dollars

Our reputation as a center for innovation and program excellence has resulted in increased grants and services from outside the Baltimore Jewish community to our beneficiary agencies.

Jewish Community Services/ Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine

$185,000 from the Centers of Medicare and Medicaid (CMS) Health Care Innovation Award for JCS to provide care coordination to low-income seniors with dementia. Designed to enable seniors with dementia to live in their homes as long as possible, the grant is the result of the MIND AT HOME trial that demonstrated seniors with dementia who were living at home and receiving care coordination services remained in their homes significantly longer and had an enhanced quality of life.

Jewish Community Services

$490,000 from the Workforce Development Matching Grant initiative (a national program created by the Harry and Jeanette Weinberg Foundation, in partnership with the Jewish Funders Network) to focus on developing increased employment opportunities and providing services to people with barriers to employment, including individuals with disabilities.

Jewish Museum of Maryland

$300,000 from the National Endowment for the Humanities to fund the museum's new exhibit, "Beyond Chicken Soup: Jews and American Medicine."

Pearlstone Center

$350,000 from the Jim Joseph Foundation to significantly increase the number of immersive JOFEE (Jewish Outdoor Food and Environmental Education) experiences.

Macks Center for Jewish Education/PJ Library

A $184,560 subsidy from the Grinspoon Foundation matches the cost of PJ Library books for 3,500 subscribers between the ages of six months through eight years old and provides 298 nine to 11 year olds with monthly books.

Greater Baltimore JCC

JCC Summer Camps will receive evaluation and consultation from the Grinspoon Foundation's JCamp 180, a national program that significantly enhances the long-term effectiveness of nonprofit overnight camps in meaningful Jewish cultural and educational experiences.

Live Well at the J

LifeBridge Health: Live Well at the J is a program funded by a grant from LifeBridge Health. Physical therapy and a variety of wellness programming are now offered at the JCCs as an integral aspect of its health and fitness expertise.
